

Four Corners is used with selected response questions to identify groups of students with similar responses to the question asked. Students move to a corner of the room designated to match their response or similar way of thinking. (Find the corner with the non-example)

Four Corners

This corner is not an example of _____ because

A correct example would be

Four Corners

This corner is not an example of _____ because

A correct example would be

Four Corners

This corner is not an example of _____ because

A correct example would be

Four Corners

This corner is not an example of _____ because

A correct example would be